

Marin Milojević

Marin Milojević was born on 07.07.1986. in Smederevo.

He graduated from high school (gymnasium) in 2005 in Smederevo.

In 2010 he started working for the Commission for Accreditation and Quality Assurance (CAQA) at following positions:

- maintenance of technical and computer equipment,
- maintenance of networks and operating system protection from the network based attacks,
- clerk of the NEAQA staff for the field of natural and mathematical sciences, where, in collaboration with CAQA members, reviewers, and institutions of higher education, he worked on the accreditation of institutions and study programs.

During his almost 10 years of experience at CAQA, he has improved and facilitated a number of procedures for more efficient work of employees, improved existing ones, and completely replaced other software tools with higher quality free solutions, and continues to do so today by constantly improving his knowledge.

He was responsible, among other things, for the development of the CAQA's previous website and for maintaining electronic database from that period.

With the formation of the National Entity for Accreditation and Quality Assurance in Higher Education (NEAQA), as a legal successor of CAQA, he continued to do the same tasks with additional responsibilities - providing administrative support in the accreditation process, keeping records, distributing necessary materials, communicating with clients.

He went through a seven-year English language course at the "Workers' University" in Smederevo, and holds a certificate of completion.

Since 2004, he has been servicing computers, developing user manuals and training users to work on computers.
